CROWDS TURN OUT TO GREET HOOVER

President-Elect, Bound For Florida, Looks Forward to Month of Rest

BY GEORGE R HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

CHARLESTON S C, Jan — Herbert Hoover shed most of his worries as president elect today and looked forward with undisguised pleasure to a month of recreation and reflection under the tropical skies of Florida He will have four weeks at least in which to relax and ruminate upon the multitudinous problems that confront a new chief executive

His cabinet is about half chosen his policies about half formulated He has brought south with him a ton of data and memoranda compiled in the last 10 weeks and during the next month he will examine it and assay it leisurely and at will He plans to fish but the fish are not going to demand his entire attention The presence of three stenographers aboard the train attest to that

Mr Hoover has felt a lot of quiet satisfaction in his first 24 hours out of Washington Most of his journey has been through politically friendly territory Republican territory—a most unusual and unprecedented experience for a Republican Virginia North Carolina and today Florida all turned out crowds at the various stations to see the train go through and give a hand where there were scheduled stops In fact the only Democratic territory traversed by the Hoover Atlantic Coast Line special was South Carolina and Georgia and the train tassel out of those states during the night

Game to the Core

ELECTION bets are still being paid off—and how!

Recently on one of the zero nights which furriers pray for, one of our well-known citizens chose to go calling in a blue silk dressing gown over his suit instead of a fleece-lined overcoat, or better still, a fur covering. Amazed friends on whom he called, gasped, politely implied that they'd like to smell his breath or made ready to call the police.

Explanations were in order, and it turned out that during the wild election betting one of the better known barbers in town wagered that if his favorite candidate didn't win that he'd wear a silk dressing gown in place of an overcoat on one of the zero nights this winter.

Year's Toll Started

LAST year Marion county had what is believed to have been its highest automobile traffic death toll, 15 lives being lost during the 12-month period.

Now 1929 is starting with two deaths already listed for the year's record. The first victims were Marcus Redmond and his granddaughter, Miss Carrie Belle Redmond, both dying at the City hospital following an accident east of the city last week.

Despite all campaigns for traffic safety, the yearly toll seems destined to climb as the number of automobiles increases. Marion county, along with all others in the state, will have more automobiles this year than ever before and if history repeats itself, this will mean more casualties.

The only thing that will change the trend is for everybody to play it safe, safety advocates point out.

Timely Discovery

SOCIAL errors are a common happening, even in those circles where culture is presumed to prevail at the highest degree. The real test comes in glossing over the mistakes and getting out of difficulties gracefully.

Five little Marion misses whose ages range around eight and nine years recently furnished evidence of their ability to appear decidedly nonchalant in the face of embarrassing circumstances.

Having been provided with just enough money to attend a Saturday afternoon matinee at the Grand theater and have 10 cents each left over, they decided to spend the surplus for sundaes at one of the uptown refreshment parlors.

With queenly dignity they entered the place, seated themselves around a table and were fully prepared for the after-theater treat when one of them happened to sight a price list posted on the wall.

The lowest quotation on sundaes was 15 cents.

Whereupon there was a hurried exchange of whispers, followed by the five calmly buttoning up their coats, adjusting their hats at the proper angle and starting for the door.

"What? Going so soon?" inquired the head clerk.

"We just happened to think of another place we must go to before it closes. We'll be back later," one of the theater party answered.

The other place, of course, was one where sundaes could be purchased for 10 cents.

Almanac Data

WHAT can't one discover, by looking through an almanac, looking over a calendar or similar publication, in the way of what is what during the ensuing year, isn't worth discovering, a reporter learned.

For example, here's what he uncovered for 1929:

New Year's day came on Tuesday; Groundhog day, Feb. 2, is due on a Saturday; Washington's birthday is a Friday; February 17 is the first Sunday in Lent; St. Patrick's day, Sunday, and Easter on Sunday, March 31.

April Fool's day comes on Monday, and Memorial day and the Fourth of July are on Thursday. Labor day comes early, Sept. 2. Columbus day Oct. 12, is a Saturday and Armistice day falls on Monday. Thanksgiving is Nov. 28. Christmas is on Wednesday. New Year's of 1930 following a week later.

There are only two unlucky Fridays in 1929. September and December have Friday the thirteenths, or "hoodoo" days.

Two eclipses of the sun are scheduled this year, neither of which however, may be classed as visible in the United States. The first is May 9, and the second Nov. 1. Mercury alternates as morning and evening star. Venus is an evening start until April 29, and morning star for the remainder of the year. Jupiter will be an evening star until May 15, a morning star until Dec. 3 and again an evening star until 1930.

Forgetting Business

BUSINESS before pleasure is a good rule but one not invariably observed. Failure to keep it in effect, especially in places where public business is transacted, often is a decided handicap to persons looking for prompt and efficient service.

An illustration was provided in one Marion office yesterday while several persons were waiting to be served by a young woman clerk who happened to be the only employe on the job at the time.

It was near the noon hour and all of those waiting for service were anxious to get their business transacted and be on their way home to the noon-day meal.

The telephone bell rang and the clerk answered in a business-like tone. Quickly, however, her voice modulated to a low, dulcet tempo and it was evident that the person at the other end of the line had something to talk about other than prosaic, practical affairs.

The conversation went on and on and those waiting on the outside of the counter shifted uneasily from one foot to another.

At least five minutes elapsed before the telephone tete-a-tete reached the ringing-off stage.

By that time, only one person was left on the outside of the counter, the others having decided to give the clerk until after noon to end her conversation.

Shineless Shoes

SHE may have been "modern to the finger tips," to quote her, but she didn't know genuine leather when she saw it, or she wouldn't have criticized Billy Dale of the Myrtyl Ross Players.

Recently a young and romantic Marion girl wrote Dale a letter in which she was going to "be different," in that she was going to criticize instead of praise the actor. She declared that her one objection to Billy was that he didn't shine his shoes.

The whole point of the answer to her criticism is that she must not have seen the shoes closely or she would have recognized genuine alligator leather that the best shoe-shiner on Broadway couldn't have polished if he's been tipped the Woolworth building.

But the critic finished her letter by suggesting that if Billy didn't collapse under this terrible criticism he might send her an autographed picture and a response.

"We know our Luckies
That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new-day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with a normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this years ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

WHO MAKES YOUR FIRE INSURANCE RATE?

Trained experts compute it; but property owners—individually and collectively—create the conditions which determine the cost of their fire insurance.

Several major factors enter into the determination of fire insurance rates, such as structure, occupancy, the quality of private and public fire protection, exposure from other property, general loss experience.

The agent who writes your insurance—or your broker—or you, yourself—can obtain an itemized explanation of how your insurance rate is computed. There is nothing secret about it.

The Stock Fire Insurance Companies solicit your interest, and offer free of charge the advice of rate-making bureaus to assist in eliminating hazards or correcting defects which may result in lowering your rate.

Do not attempt unsound fire prevention measures, but seek the advice of the accredited experts of rating bureaus who are anxious to tell you the proper way to make improvements.

Insurance companies generally prefer risks eligible to a low rate to those which carry higher ones. A low rate indicates better conditions, better maintenance and less chance of fire.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters does not make rates and has nothing to do with rate making. As a bureau of standards it does supply rate makers with units for measuring the comparative strength and usefulness of materials and devices.

In Ohio fire insurance rates are computed by the Ohio Inspection Bureau, with offices at Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Youngstown, Lima, Springfield, Portsmouth and Steubenville.

High Mark in Marion's School Attendance is Set in Record for December

Davids Street Goes Through Month Without Single Case of Tardiness; Enrollment in City 152 Above December of Last Year; Decline Shown in Parents' Visits

The Davids Street school building set up an enviable record during December, with no cases of tardiness listed on the monthly report sent out from the office of George A. Bowman, superintendent of schools. Of the total enrollment of 136 pupils, there was a 92.5 percent attendance, with 60 pupils perfect in attendance.

Tardiness was on a decrease, though, throughout all the schools, being 112 pupils less than in December of 1927.

An unfavorable item in the report is the drop in the number of visits of parents to the school. In December, 1927, there were 1,211 visits made to the schools and in the same month last year, only 497.

111 Visits at Glenwood

Glenwood school, with an enrollment of 490 pupils, was visited by 111 parents. Harding high school, enrolling 894 students, had only 24 parent visits for the month.

There was an increase of 152 pupils in the total enrollment of December, 1928 over December, 1927. An increase of 2.1 percent, is shown in the percentage of attendance.

Harding High school had 298 pupils perfect in attendance. In point of percentage, however, this mark was surpassed by Oakland with a record of 291 perfect out of an enrollment of 338.

Highest Attendance

Greenwood Street school heads the role of rooms having an average of 96 percent or more in attendance and no pupils tardy, with 98⅓ per cent attendance in the room taught by Florabel Clarke.

The following are also named in the list: Pearl Street, Etta Carter, 97 per cent; Oakland Heights, Laura Lindsey, 96.9 percent; North Main Street, Evalona McKinley, 96.7 percent; Greenwood Street, Nellie Irey, 96.1 percent; Vernon Heights, Lela Brookshire, 96 percent.

Donald Lee and Charlotte Willoughby of the Silver Street school and Luella Scholl of the Olney Avenue School, lead the list of 14 teachers making 10 or more home visits during the month, each having made 25 visits.

The list also includes the following: Central Junior high school, Grace Colvin, 10; Harding high, Edith Brown, 18; Lincoln, Margaret Seiter, 13; Silver Street, Maud Alter, 12; Olney Avenue, Ruby Craner, 12; Silver Street, Margaret Forry, 12; Central Junior high school, W. C. Selanders, 12; and the following making 10 visits: Martha Duerr, Olney Avenue; Ruth Gallimore, Oak Street; Gladys Larson, Oak Street and Linda Willauer, Forest Lawn.

NIGHT NURSE SOON ENDED SEVERE COLD

Almost Instant Relief Came When Doctor Advised Method Used In Homes of Many Here

Realizing the needless misery and risk so often caused by neglected colds, doctors are now advising a quick method that gives almost instant relief—then ends the cold completely in a few hours. And now Mrs. Edith Healy, hospital nurse, like numbers of people here, realizes how needless it is to take chances on a cold when relief can be had so quickly and pleasantly.

Long hours of duty as night nurse—frequent trips from warm sick rooms into chilly halls—caused Mrs. Healy to catch a severe cold. It started in her head but she made the mistake of neglecting it until congestion started spreading rapidly. Then she consulted one of the hospital physicians who advised Ayer's Pectoral—a hospital certified medication of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients now used in leading clinics to help reduce fever, clear up congestion and drive out the cold.

Just a pleasant swallow brought almost instant relief. She felt its comforting, healing warmth—from her nose passages deep down into her chest. By night her fever was reduced from 100 degrees to normal and congestion in her head was rapidly clearing up. She was able to return to duty that night, the doctor reports, and in day or so all traces of the cold were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Just a few pleasant spoonsful of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by all druggists.

TRAFFIC SNARL IS UNWOUND BY WHALEN

Commissioner's Plan Speeds Up Cars in New York Theatrical District

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Mayor James J. Walker and many theatrical producers today congratulated Grover Whalen, New York's police commissioner and new czar of traffic, upon the success of his plan to unsnarl the traffic congestion in the Times Square area and enable theater-goers to start for the theater after instead of before dinner.

The plan was tried out for the first time last night on what were the most congested streets in the world. It was declared that cars moved through the theater zone twice as fast as previously.

With Director Whalen masterminding the operations from an especially constructed tower at Broadway and 44th st., the cast of 50,000 automobiles and 400 extra policemen performed splendidly. And 200,000 pedestrian "first nighters" pronounced the show a hit. Police had to disperse thousands of spectators who massed around Whalen's tower, cheered him in thunderous acclaim and threw confetti at him.

Whalen's plan eliminates all right and left turns in the theatrical district, prohibits commercial vehicles inside the area, restricts parking and makes it necessary for empty cars to keep moving instead of darting in and out for passengers.

Pedestrians were held back at corners until the traffic lights changed. The first jay-walker was arrested and dismissed in night court. Wrecking cars towed 22 parked automobiles to police stations, where their owners were handed summonses. A no-speed limit was in effect for vehicular traffic. Under the new "stagger" plan, musical shows began at 8:30 p. m. and other plays at 9:50 p. m.

LEWIS ANDERSON HEADS INSTITUTE

Grand Township Man Elected President at Final Session in Meeker

Lewis Anderson, of Grand township, will head the Meeker Farmers' institute as a result of the election of officers following the close of the 1929 session.

Anderson was elected president to succeed A. M. Peters, who served during the last year. Mr. Peters, of Salt Rock township, was named treasurer of the institute for next year. Earl Miller, of Montgomery township, was named vice president. Clifford Brown, of Grand township, was named secretary, and Mrs. Allie Rhoades, of Big Island township, lady correspondent.

Two other institutes are scheduled in the county. The Prospect institute will open Thursday for a two-day session. The Waldo institute will open Wednesday and will continue Thursday.

PRISONERS BREAK AWAY, ONE RETAKEN

Second Man Eludes Guards and Still Is at Liberty

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22—One convict was being held in solitary confinement at the Ohio State penitentiary here today and another was the object of a statewide police hunt following a successful break for liberty late yesterday afternoon as the men were working in the prison stone quarry, near here.

Edward Montgomery, 24, and Ernest Finisee, 40, made the dash for freedom just as the day guards were being relieved and the night guards being placed. They succeeded in getting through the quarry gate.

An alarm was spread and Montgomery was captured in a freight car shortly afterwards. Finisee eluded officers, however, and is still at liberty. He is believed to have fled toward Springfield or Dayton.

Montgomery was placed in solitary confinement. He is from Summit county and was sentenced to the penal institution for a term of from three to five years on a burglary charge. Finisee is from Hamilton county and was serving an eight-to-20-year term for manslaughter.

SOCIETY TO MEET

avoid "dosing"
CHILDREN
for Colds and Flu
A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system and too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion just when the child needs all his reserve strength to fight off the flu.
Internal medication should be avoided, therefore, except on the advice of a physician. As Vicks VapoRub is applied externally, it can be used freely, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting the most delicate stomach.
A Safe External Treatment
When flu is around, don't let children keep a cold overnight. At the very first sign, put the child to bed. Apply hot wet towels on the throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel.
Leave the bed-covering loose around the neck so that Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body warmth, can be freely inhaled. They are breathed in direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and clearing the head. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.
After a Flu-Attack
Don't let the children get up too soon; rest in bed helps nature to build up the vitality. Don't let them work or play too hard, and be careful to avoid sudden chills.
Above all, stop every cold at the start. At this time, more than ever, colds attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, abscess of the ear, sinus-trouble or pneumonia.
Equally good for adults. Of course, Vicks 2-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles as it is for children's.

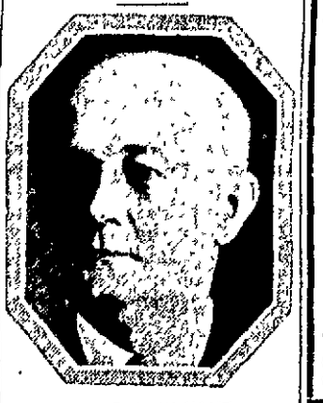
KEEP STOMACH YOUNG!
Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.
Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acid and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.
Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.—Adv.

RAILROAD MAN CALLS KONJOLA 90 H. P. REMEDY
"Gave Me Most Wonderful Relief — Have My Old-Time Health and Strength Again"



MR. C. L. BRYANT

Remarkable, indeed, are many of the indorsements that come from delighted men and women who have found in Konjola the one and only remedy that brought relief long sought in vain.
One of the unusual experiences is that of Mr. C. L Bryant, Elberon avenue, Cincinnati, an employe for many years of the Big Four Railroad. Mr. Bryant, delighted and amazed over this new medicine says:
"Konjola certainly proved a ninety horse-power remedy in my case. A year ago I started to suffer from severe pains in my back, limbs and arches of my feet. I was scarcely able to attend to my work, and all that I tried helped me not a bit Fellow trainmen, who knew of the wonders of Konjola advised me to try this new compound. Two bottles showed me that I was on the right track, and with all the signals set for the trip to health Five bottles banished every pain and ache, and in that five weeks I gained 15 pounds, all my old strength was back of the job with all my old time vigor. Konjola went right to the source of my trouble. My liver and kidneys were cleansed and put to work; the poisons were driven from my body, and I threw away the arches that did my feet no good at all. Today I am better than I have been for years, and I owe it all to Konjola."
Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experiences with this new medical compound, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.
Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this section.—Adv.

President Garfield Goes Aground.

The Dollar line of steamships has been having more than its fair share of trouble, of late. It was but a few days ago that the President Adams of that line went aground near the Atlantic entrance to the Panama canal, and Monday's wires told of the grounding of the President Garfield on Mantanilla reef east of the Bahamas, the night before.

The fact that the President Adams was pulled off after repeated efforts and the probability that the President Garfield will be refloated, to a degree minimizes the loss the line will suffer, but by no means makes the Dollar people anywhere near whole. Both the vessels were on around-the-world cruises. The passengers on the President Adams were transferred to a vessel of another line, and the trip abandoned. Possibly the cruise of the Garfield may suffer the same fate, which would mean more loss to the line, although today's advices are that the cruise will be continued.

But such losses as the two vessels have encountered are not really to be compared with the psychological effect upon travelers. Such accidents cause vessels to gain a reputation for being "unlucky." In fact, neither the Adams nor the Garfield has been considered among the line's lucky ships, the latter having been especially unfortunate in that she ran aground on Half Moon shoals off Nantucket about two years ago and was held fast for fifteen hours before being pulled off at high tide, and last June she rammed and sank the collier, Hershaw, in Vineyard sound, seven of the collier's crew being lost in the accident.

Happily, the Dollar line has been very fortunate in the matter of carrying its passengers safely, and, when all is said, that should counteract the effect of such mishaps as these two liners have suffered, but what should be and what will be are not always the same.

In any event, the Dollar line is far from alone in respect to such mishaps, this winter, which has been marked by an unusual number of groundings, notable among them being that of the White Star liner, Celtic, which hit the Cow and Calf rock at the entrance to Queenstown harbor and is recognized as a total loss.

And speaking of the case of the British liner, Celtic, recalls the fact that Great Britain is in large part responsible for the grounding of the President Garfield owing to her dereliction in permitting Mantanilla reef to go unmarked save by a small buoy light. Not only has Britain neglected to mark the reef adequately, but she has also refused to permit the United States to station a lightship there to avert accidents to shipping in a channel in which traffic has become heavy.

Minding One's Own Business.

Decidedly away from the general run of pulpit offerings was the message delivered by the Rev. Dr. M. H. Lichliter to the congregation of the First Congregational church, of Columbus, Sunday, in which he held that "the fine art of minding one's own business, which is fundamental both to morals and religion, is almost a lost art today."

Naturally, some will feel that the reverend doctor is too liberal in his views, while to others they will appear as sensible and wholly in harmony with the teachings of Him who came to save the world.

"In the meddlesome conscience, seventeenth century Puritanism lives again in its most unlovely aspect," a Columbus paper quotes the doctor as saying. "There is always some joy to be taken out of life, and every community has its full quota of men and women dedicated to that high purpose.

"Examples of meddlesome conscience are to be found in the organizations which assume the right to indorse candidates without the request of the electorate. It lives in social agencies which presume to tell some one else how much rent he ought to pay, what food he should eat, and what pleasures he must deny himself.

"It's ugliest expression is found in the efforts to rob Sunday of its pleasures and which sees in every parked automobile a sinister significance. The meddlesome conscience is happiest when it is stirring up trouble.

"The answer," the doctor held, "is the morality of common sense. Between the moral anarchy of an individual which says 'My conscience does not hurt me,' and the paternal despotism which says, 'My conscience says this is wrong, and therefore you must not do it,' lies the middle-temperate zone of morals. Here one finds trust in moral suasion and faith in the processes of moral education. One recovers the soul of the old Puritanism, released from the muck of Elizabethan practices—the iron law of self-control.

"There is no character without battle, there is no virtue where there is no temptation, there is no strong life possible where there is not the challenge of some perilous choice."

We neither know nor know of the Reverend Doctor Lichliter save by and through his utterance herein quoted. We do not know the standing as a minister he has attained among clergymen; the standing which is his as a citizen among his fellow-citizen, or the esteem given him as a man by his fellow-men, but we feel that, if he lives as he talks, he is a man one should be glad to know, a citizen who is an asset to his community and a minister who preaches a religion which adds to human happiness and makes life the more worth living.

And what is there in a religion which does not add to the sum of human joys and pleasures and human happiness? The world has enough of grief and sorrow and unhappiness. What excuse is there for any agency or creed which would add to it? More than that, what divine authority is there for filling the world with gloom?

Some hold that this life we live is merely preparatory to a future life, and that our own great aim in this existence should be to prepare ourselves for the life to come. But there are others who hold that, to live this life to the best advantage, we must live it from day to day; that in this life we get a share of heaven if we live it as we should and experience some of the tortures of hell, if we do not live it as we should.

Some seem disinclined to credit it, but there can be liberty without license. Joy and happiness and peace are not incompatible with virtue, nor are they the necessary companions of vice. As a matter of fact, the entire history of mankind stands as testimony that joy and happiness and peace constitute the most perfect armor against crime, and vice, and envy, and meanness, and littleness. And yet there are those who would deny them to their fellow-men.

A Paris fashion note says that, while some of the new models show nothing above the waistline save a pair of suspenders to hold up the skirts, the latter fall well below the knees. There's one thing to be said for the French creators of fashion: they may always be depended to be wholly conservative and never go to extremes.

The tail of a cow out at Pana, Illinois, was cut off by the propeller of an airplane as the machine was being landed. It's about a million-to-one shot that the petition for damages will show that the cow thus mutilated is not only a family pet, but also an exceedingly valuable animal.

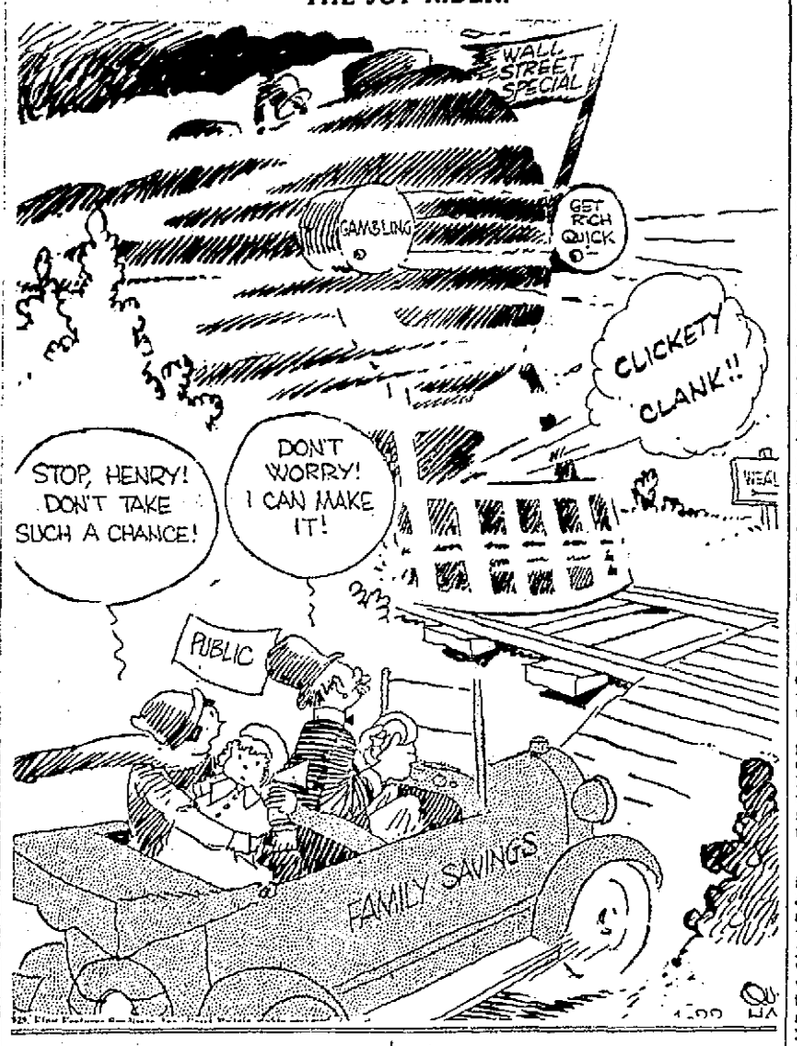
New York City is facing a pier famine, her facilities in that line being utterly inadequate to handle the shipping entering her harbor. Unlike skyscrapers, piers can not be built up into the air.

Leroy E. Buffington, Minneapolis engineer and architect, after forty-seven years has been recognized as the inventor of the plan by which the modern skyscraper is made possible, but while others have realized millions from his idea, he has yet to receive his first real remuneration. So, often, is life.

A Boston landlord has made complaint to the city authorities that a tenant is washing his dog in the bathtub of a dwelling rented from him. And the landlord is right in the matter. It's a needless waste of water. Tenants should be compelled to wash their dogs in laboratories.

The wires tell us that a child was injured and two homes damaged by lightning during a thunder-storm near Los Angeles, Sunday, which was preceded by a twister which uprooted trees and was followed by two waterspouts. We will stand for the twister and the waterspouts, but our faith in the good people of California precludes us from questioning their assurance that they never have thunder storms out there. We simply can't believe it.

THE JOY RIDER.



When Flu Threatens.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

On the morning of the day I write this I visited the children's pavilion of a great hospital. I happened to run into an old friend of mine who has charge of the babies. It always does me good to meet this great doctor. He is enthusiastic over his work and devoted to the cause of humanity. Sometimes he is spoken of as "the doctor of doctors" because he is called so frequently to see patients in doctors' families.

I started to tell you of one little patient I saw in the hospital. This little youngster is only twenty-two months old, but my doctor friend carried the child through a terrific attack of pneumonia. The clinical chart showed the temperature actually reached more than 107 degrees.

It is very rare indeed for the fever to reach any such point. I recall a patient I saw soon after the Spanish war when the temperature went even higher than this. But that occurred in a man of naturally strong and vigorous body who could withstand such an experience.

The ailment of the baby I am talking about started with a mild attack of influenza. As a matter of fact, the danger of influenza is in the secondary involvement of the lungs. Uncomplicated influenza is not serious. But when the lungs are attacked then there is trouble.

Many a baby has become the victim of pneumonia as a result of a common cold. Babies do not resist colds as grown people do. An ailment which is of no particular importance to an adult may be serious indeed if it attacks an infant.

The respiratory diseases are the most serious disturbances that babies have. They are responsible for most of the fatalities among infants.

I am telling you all this with one purpose in mind. I beg of you to guard your baby against infections of the nose and throat. What we speak of as "just a cold" may be nothing more to a grown-up, but to the baby a cold is a serious matter.

Don't forget that the common cold must be regarded as an infectious or contagious disease. It may be of so mild a type in the adult as hardly to have any effect upon another adult. But when the germs of the same cold are passed to a weak little baby there may be serious results.

Guard your infant against contact with persons who have colds. If you have a cold, take every precaution against passing it on to the baby. Bear in mind that the moist secretions of the nose and throat of a person with a cold are capable of carrying the disease to the baby.

Editorial Opinion.

REBELLION IN THE SALVATION ARMY.

The whole of the "inside" of the situation which has finally induced the high council of the Salvation army to undertake to depose General Bramwell Booth is not entirely clear in this part of the world. As far as reports indicate at this distance, the move was not primarily the result of any ill-feeling toward the general, and there is nothing upon which to base even a belief that personal ambition has been a contributing cause to conditions. The action of the council seems to have been the result of genuine solicitude for the welfare of the organization.

The aged commander-in-chief has been, and is ill, and scarcely in a condition to provide a vigorous leadership. But the chief dissatisfaction seems to have arisen from a feeling that the present autocratic, one-man rule of the army is obsolete and is becoming injurious. And there unquestionably is an immediate fear about the succession, in case the old order continues and the general indicates who is to take the throne when he dies. There is frank uneasiness lest he make an unwise choice which will hurt the army in the future.

The conduct of the grand council, no matter how justifiable, is, of course, technically, an act of rebellion, and if it succeeds it will mean revolution. General Booth manifestly so understands the matter, and he has shown no disposition to recognize the authority of the council or to acquiesce in its decision. Such a position is only natural, for the general was the recipient and is the upholder of a great tradition in the organization he heads and which his father founded, and quite conceivably he considers the headship a secret trust it is his privilege and responsibility to keep, and ultimately delegate to a successor. But, on the other hand, this does not alter the fact that the army faces the danger of a definite split and of much loss of prestige and power to do good, unless the general and the council can come to some amicable agreement.—Detroit Free Press.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE.

Chief Justice Taft's is an optimistic, mellowing philosophy. He is too wise to speak with definite positiveness concerning the trends of modern civilization in this country, but he has faith in his people and says so; he insists that, notwithstanding jazz impulses on the one hand and mournful prophecies on the other, the American people will find a way to solve all their problems. He said so last week in an illuminating interview accorded the New York World.

The chief justice believes that the most disturbing element in the national life at present is what he characterizes as the materialistic philosophy which places wealth and worldly success ahead of every other consideration in life.

In a little different phraseology the eminent jurists asks: "What will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Cincinnati's distinguished son does not expect the near approximation of the millennium, but he does feel that its coming may be facilitated by social and legislative progress compelled by a more sensitive public consciousness. The world was not made in a day. And every age, every civilization, has had its troublesome problems.

Justice Taft believes that the entire machinery of justice must be geared up to meet and control existing conditions—courts, police departments, prosecuting organizations—to enable them properly to deal with the issue of organized crime, which regards human life and property rights as of negligible importance in face of the enforcement of its evil desire.

We shall come through, said the chief justice. It is his optimistic faith that right must conquer wrong; that our civilization essentially is too valuable, constructive and noble to be swept away by the mounting waves of materialism and sordid crime.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Dinner Stories.

Sandy was a poor sailor. One day as he was crossing the Channel he went to the captain of the boat and said: "Look here, captain, you must know of some cure for seasickness."

"Certainly," said the captain. "I'll cure you." And he did. He made Sandy hold a shilling between his teeth.

McIntyre on Vacation.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

At Sea, Jan. 22—Old Lady Atlantic, the hussy, has settled down after acting up and showing off the way she did yesterday. The big liner moves with the placidity of a swan on a lake. A marvelous red sun, like a bloated tangerine, hangs high, dappling the spray with prisms of pink. It is a nice buggy ride.

Everybody seems in a mood, tra, la, to leap for buttercups. But a slight squall and back we go to our cabins to look pale and interesting and nibble at a water cracker. Such is the way of the "ol' debbil sea." Booming voices in the bar are demanding whisky sours, dry martinis and such.

Passengers are becoming acquainted. Mr. Roy Burton, of the Olathe, Kansas, Burtons, is parading in his new plaid golf pants. Miss Minnie Clark has turned to her longnetted neighbor—listed as "Duchess de Polivine and maid"—and inquired brightly: "First trip?" and received a curt: "one hundred and eighteenth."

And the usual voyage romances are burgeoning. Young people are pairing off. The eagle-eyed card sharks are spotting their prey. And the poor gent across the companionway still has the heaves.

Our cabin boy, Charlot, in his flaming red uniform and tambourine cap is sixteen years old and can not remember how many times he has crossed the ocean. Some day, he says, he is going to be master of a ship, and he blushes delightfully at the suggestion he has a girl in every port, the little Romeo.

Among the familiar faces are those of Mrs. Irvin Cobb, Professor John Erskine, C. F. Bertelli, George Ullman, a gentleman who once pushed me off a New York sidewalk for stepping on his foot, and another gentleman who owes me $30. Small world, mates. And then there is Henry Villar, the purser.

M. Villar abandoned a great legal maritime practice to follow the sea. He is the supreme essence of French politeness. For every lady he has a jack-knife bow and a hand kiss. His voice is a silken caress and he seems more fitted for a Lonsdale boudoir drama than the rough and tumble life of the ocean.

I like to round up in the Grand Guignol in the late afternoon to see the Punch and Judy show for the children. Other old rams are there explaining they come merely to watch the children—the liars. They come just as I to see the show. The maestro is a venerable Frenchman—M. Antoine—who is winding up his days as a magician with a traveling circus amusing the kiddies. He tells me he has a son who is a ranch owner in Montana. He is eighty-one.

* * *

At the Guignol are many little children of the rich with their governesses. At five and six these American tots understand and speak French perfectly which is quite confusing to those of us who have struggled for years to master enough phrases to order a meal and then when handed a menu always go up in our lines.

* * *

It seems to me steamship lines should abandon the custom of listing passengers as first, second and third class. That is rank and undeserved snobbery. As a matter of fact, some of the most distinguished and certainly the most interesting passengers travel second class. Among them you find no glittering questionables and new rich showoffs. They are mostly the seasoned travelers who know the ropes and have learned they can travel just as comfortably at a cheaper price. If it weren't for this class distinction nearly all of us would travel second class. Just a fuss-budget.

On the promenade deck today two Frenchmen with glistening spade-shaped beards seemed to be in the throes of epileptic seizures—waving their arms, rolling their eyes and exchanging torrents of conversation. Then they stopped suddenly, held each other at arm lengths and bestowed kisses on each cheek. I don't know whether it was a fight or a frolic; but it was dandy fun to watch. Nor was it nice for a passing cloak and suiter in a big plaid cap to cry out: "Get hot, boys!"

Overheard on deck:

Lady, rather enthusiastically: I hear Adolph Menjou is among the passengers.

Gentleman, rather bored: Yeah? What am I supposed to do—run a temperature?

The Sun Is Too Hot To Burn.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"A lighted candle placed in an air-tight box will go out for the shortage of oxygen, etc. But how is it the sun does not go out due to the same conditions?—Ernest A. Kortersler, Brooklyn."

This is a useful question, because it introduces some things which ought to be universally known, but which seem to be ignored or misunderstood by thousands.

A lighted candle enclosed in an air-tight box goes out, as stated, because the oxygen in the box is soon consumed, so that combustion (burning) can no longer occur. In the same way, the candle would cease to burn from lack of oxygen if it were placed in a vacuum.

Now, the argument in the mind of the writer of the letter is that, since the open space that surrounds the sun is a vacuum, or at least is destitute of air and oxygen, the sun should go out like the candle.

The argument would be good if only the sun were a fire burning in an atmosphere containing oxygen. But the fact is that the sun is not a fire. It is a thousand times hotter than any fire. The process by which its heat is generated and maintained is not that of oxydation by burning. The sun is an enormous globe of matter in the gaseous state, and the inference from the newest investigations is that the temperature near the center of the sun (at a depth of more than 400,000 miles below its surface) must be many millions of degrees!

The English astronomer, Eddington, calculates that the central temperature of the sun is not less than 40,000,000 degrees, and its central density, notwithstanding its gaseous state, he figures as twenty-eight times that of water. Therefore, the gases composing the central part of the sun are denser than the metal platinum! This great density results from the enormous size of the sun which is 864,000 miles in diameter.

Science walks over rough, untracked ground and makes many stumbles, though it always recovers its feet and goes onward again. A stumble was made in approaching the question, How does the sun get its heat if it is not burning? The answer made at one time was that the heat arose only from the internal pressure just spoken of, on the principle that a squeeze makes heat. But this hypothesis has been abandoned, and at present the favorite idea is that the atoms do it; they develop the heat by liberating stores of internal energy; for every atom is now supposed to be a little giant of amazing energy. No doubt the immense pressure in the sun plays a part, but not in the simple way formerly assumed. The hypothesis is still not combustion, but by the transformation of its forms, or offshoots, the astonishing suggestion is made that the sun really is using up its substance, not as a burning body does by combustion, but by the transformation of its mass into radiant energy. This is based on the Einsteinian idea that mass is convertible into energy. Thus it is stated that "a loss of M grams of mass corresponds to the liberation of MC2 ergs," the "erg" being the scientific unit of energy and "C" being the velocity of light, to which the relativity theory ascribes such mysterious properties. It isn't necessary to try to understand this, but only the conclusion drawn from it, that "it is as legitimate to speak of a pound of heat as of a pound of iron" and that "the sun is losing by radiation 4,200,000 tons of heat every second."

So, if all this be true, the sun, after all, notwithstanding that it is not a fire and is not burning, is consuming itself, for the benefit, shall we say, of its children, the planets. But the sun is rich in unexpended energy. It has enough, say the theorists, to last for thousands of billions of years.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Was it not Dr. Henry Van Dyke who wrote these lines:

"These are the things I prize
And hold of dearest worth:
Light of the sapphire skies,
Peace of the silent hills,
Shelter of forests, comfort of the grass,
Music of birds, murmur of little rills,
Shadow of clouds that swiftly pass,
And, after showers,
The smell of flowers,
And the good brown earth—
And best of all, along the way, friendship and mirth."

This is a great verse by which to check up our real interests. If we really care for the things so beautifully presented in the line above we are getting something fine and sweet out of life.

* * *

Nobody denies that a hobby is a healthful thing. To turn from the daily job to a hobby brings the rest that comes from change and a new kind of mental exercise. One thing every hobbiest ought to do as well as he can. He ought to keep his hobby to himself or reserve the exploitation of it to those who are seized with the same idea.

* * *

There is a certain verse in a well-known book which deals with the subject of "losing oneself." To many people that verse has probably been obscure and perplexing. How can one find oneself only by losing oneself? And yet it is both simple and true. If we give everything we have to the most important task in hand you find the greatest contentment and peace of mind you will ever get in this world. You will find yourself at your best.

When we get so interested in something or other that we forget our little personal comforts, when we become so interested in the welfare of someone else that we do not notice the pain of effort and sacrifice, we have really achieved happiness. We have lost ourselves. The greatest gain comes through losing ourselves.

Best Students Study Less Tests at O. S. U. Show

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22 — Ohio State University's best students study [illegible] less than those who get lower grades.

This fact was recently discovered by Dr Herbert A Toops of the department of psychology in a study of psychology tests taken by all students entering the university.

Questionnaires answered by students revealed that those who received the best grades studied only 20 hours a week, while those with lower marks said they studied 50 hours a week. The student receiving an average grade studied 30 hours a week, according to the study.

The questionnaires submitted are believed by officials in charge of the test, to convey accurate information inasmuch as students were given a week's time to chart their time for studying at the university before giving their answers.

Women Better Students

Women students rank higher in scholastic standings than men, it was revealed. The degree of superiority was said to be slight, however.

More than 60,000 copies of entrance examinations were printed this year. Many of these were distributed among the 50 colleges that comprise the Ohio College Association. Each of the Ohio colleges gave the same entrance examinations to newcomers.

Intelligence tests serve as the common denominator of ability to compare the effects of such factors as sex, color, age and previous college work.

Less risk of "flu" if you do two things

Precautions you can take immediately

"THERE is no use worrying every time you draw a breath for fear you will breathe in some influenza germs. Do the following two things and forget it: First, keep your nose and throat well protected, and second, keep your system in good condition. The chances are you will avoid contagion.

"As a first precaution, I am prescribing Mistol to all my patients, as it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza. Use it every morning, the first thing, before you go out. Again when you come home at night. Don't be afraid to use it freely, it will do no harm.

"Just tilt your head back and apply Mistol with the special dropper which comes with every package, until you feel it trickling down your throat. It will clear your head wonderfully, relieve any inflammation; it will help dry up a running nose. It has a soothing effect on the throat, too. Gargle it for a sore throat or a little irritating cough. Above all, it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza.

"This is the first precaution; now for the second: Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, weakening of the system due to purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable; therefore, many doctors are prescribing Nujol. It is not a laxative or cathartic but a pure, natural substance that helps your system function at all times the way nature intended it to. Like pure water, it is harmless. In no case does Nujol cause weakening of the system. Take it night and morning; it will keep you in first class condition. You will have a far better chance to resist "flu" or any other diseases that are going the rounds.

"The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against colds and influenza. Start this wise twofold precaution now. Don't delay. Put worry out of your mind. The chances are good that you will escape influenza and "colds." Nujol and Mistol are on sale at all druggists."

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Overhear Interesting Conversation

THE offices of the art magazine in which Dicky and Edith Fairfax are partners have spread out since Dicky took over the venture. A well-appointed reception room is at the front, while the private offices of Edith and Dicky are at the rear, with desks of a clerical force between. On the floor above are a photographic studio and rooms for the staff artists. The whole interior was much different than when I had last seen it upon the day when I had found Dicky heartbrokenly confiding to Edith his terrible suspicion that I was trying to poison him.

The remembrance of that day came over me vividly as I stepped into the reception room. So vivid was the memory that, for a second or two, my dry, constricted throat refused me speech. I was relieved, indeed to hear Lillian's voice.

"Are Mr. Graham and Miss Fairfax here?" she asked.

The girl addressed, a trim efficient young person, sitting at a desk marked "Information," looked at us attentively as she rose. I had the feeling that in the second she had classified and indexed us.

"They are in the studio just at present," she said, "and they are extremely busy. But they will be down shortly. This is Mrs. Graham, is it not?"

She looked at me, and I nodded, forcing a smile in lieu of the words I could not utter. But I wondered how she knew.

"If you'll come back with me," she said, "into Mr. Graham's office, it will be pleasanter for you. As soon as they are through in the studio I'll let them know you are here. I'd rather not disturb them now unless it is very important that you should see them."

"Nothing important about it," Harry Underwood rumbled. "We'll just wait until they come down. You don't even need to tell them we're here. We'll just say, 'Surprise, surprise.'"

The girl's composure was proof against his nonsense, but I caught an appreciative twinkle in her eyes as she answered the sally demurely.

"I may not see them before you do," she said, "for the stairway is at the side of their offices, and they may go there before coming out here."

"Well! we'll make a stab at introducing ourselves," Mr. Underwood gibed, and then she ushered us into one of the two offices at the rear.

It was unmistakably Dicky's room, piled high with manuscripts and drawings, and a motley disorder of pamphlets, magazines and books. But his desk was comparatively clear and upon it—I felt my pulses leap at the sight—was the framed picture of Junior and me which Dicky had had taken several years before.

Why I should have expected the picture to be gone, I do not know, but the surprise and pleasure of seeing it sent a queer little glow over me which lasted until we heard Edith Fairfax's voice in tremulous, excited expostulation outside in the corridor.

"Oh, Dicky! these are too much! I can't take them from you."

"Of course you can," my husband's voice said in friendly, affectionate gibing.

"It isn't as if they were real, you know. And they make you look like a million dollars."

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TUESDAY, and if the weather keeps up like this it wil lbe summertime before Valentine day. I have not got anything yet to give anyone a valentine with. I would give Youniss Jubilee for a valentine if I was sure that she would give him back. But no one can ever tell what a woman will do. I heard my grandfather say that, and he says he has known lots o' women, some wild and some tame, some wise and some otherwise. I did not know there were any wild women. I do not know what me and Jubilee would do if we were to get shipwrecked on a island full of wild women, because no gentleman can strike a lady unless she is his sister or something.

When I had let Jubilee down, by the rope in his teeth and went out and milked the dummed brutes and squirted Maggie's face full of milk, because she said she thought I was as pretty as a girl, and Peanuts asted her what girl and she said Mealy Gutwaltz. Then she came and put her arms around my neck and tried to wipe her face on my shirt, and I fell off the stool and she fell with me and the cow kicked the milkpail acrosst the barn. She is the girl that got fascinated on her leg so it wouldn't show, and she is a skinny-me-dink. I could see that Youniss wasn't so very well pleased, but she didn't have anything on me.

When we were in school the teacher asted us if Christmas and New Year came in the same year, and we all said no. Then she smiled and told us to study jografy and think it over, and every once in a while we could hear some kid make a noise when he tiggered out that they do come on the same year. Our teacher thinks she is smart. She is. All the girls are wearing rubbers and all the boys wearing wet feet these days. I wish it would freeze and stay froze till it is time for summer.

We all went down to the pond after school was out and we skated around and pulled the girls on their slays, and if it was froze hard like it ought to be the ice on the pond would not be covered with water, and Feeble would not of got wet when I yanked the slay out from under her and left her on her stummick on the ice. She gasped like a fish two or three times when I had helped her up before she could speak, and then she asted me what she would do, and I told her I didn't know.

Then she asted me what I done when I got soaked, and I said I made a fire and took all my clothes off and dried them, she said for me to hurry up and make a fire, but I told her her it was milking time, and me and Jubilee clumb the hill and went home. Feeble is too fresh. I heard someone whisle on their fingers and I looked out of the barn and saw her going home.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

When your child is sleepless.

This remedy rarely fails.

Constipation is a common cause of sleeplessness, both in children and adults. When a child is wakeful and fretful, see if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour, irritating waste. Simply give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have no more anxiety over the child's excitability and wakefulness at night. Children love this harmless "fruity" laxative. It banishes biliousness and constipation, regulates the bowels and insures pure blood, a clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and helps to build a strong constitution.

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitators.—Adv.

A Story of Big Business and the Wiles of Women

BY ARNOLD BENNETT

Miss Perkins said Lord Furber Just listen I shant ask ye to believe me because I know I can make ye believe me No Dont drop yer eyes Look right at me'

Harriet who in fact had lowered her gaze raised it again

Well

I didnt know ye from Eve until ye came into this room Id never heard of ye I dont want anything from ye If ve go left behind it was yer own fault And you can understand that with two launches and 13 people, it would be easy enough for one or two to be left behind I hear ye were seen in the engine room with Mr Sutherland I suppose you and he are old friends

The Upper Hand

Lord Furber,' said Miss Perkins Just listen to me I shant ask you to believe me because I know you can't help believing me Till this evening Id never spoken a word to Mr Sutherland in my life I know nothing at all about him except what everybody knows who reads the newspapers He's naive like you But he's a nice old thing, and he fell in love with me at first sight Oh yes in love' I wanted to be kind to him

I went down with him into the engine room and I stayed talking there with him simply because I saw he was enjoying it But——— She stopped

But? Lord Furber's eyes gleamed provocatively

But I know very well now your people only left me quietly in the engine room because I was with Mr Sutherland You didn't want to disturb him and you couldn't disturb me without disturbing him and so I am to share Mr Sutherland's dreadful fate She laughed It was Mr Sutherland you wanted to capture Once you'd got him on board you'd have kept him here somehow whether he'd been in the engine room or anywhere else And to get him on board you gave a dinner to 13 persons and I shouldn't be at all surprised if you even organized the hotel strike Nothing would surprise me I haven't shown a great deal of surprise but you must admit that I'm entitled to be astonished by what's happened to me since I was enticed into your 2,000-ton yacht'

And why do settle on Mr Sutherland as the victim of all this wonderful Machiavellianism? Don't answer if you'd prefer not to

Of course I shouldn't answer if I preferred not to But I don't a bit mind answering His luggage! That's why I settle on Mr Sutherland His luggage! We discovered it together in one of the cabins I didn't know it was his till I saw the labels

He might have had it sent on board himself for anything you know

Miss Perkins rose to her feet

Don't be so silly, she somewhat crudely advised Lord Furber She was shaking The cigaret shook in her hand

What

I say don't be silly And what are you going to do about it? Hit me? It's time somebody talked straight to you You're a millionaire and so everybody humors you and flatters you—and pulls you to pieces behind your back I know you turn your home into a perfect hell with your childish tantrums'

You know nothing about my home' growled Lord Furber

I know a lot about your home I can see your home in your face at this very moment You're all alike you self made millionaires Spoiled children, every one of you You ought to be well smacked—and in the right place, too"

At this point Lord Furber, genuinely amazed and furious overthrew a chair A siphon rebounded on the carpet but did not break

Hell's delight' cried he

"There you are! I told you you hadn't got any self restraint Naughty little thing! Do try to be a man and don't be silly with your absurd suggestions about Mr Sutherland having sent his luggage on board himself

'I never saw anybody more staggered than Mr Sutherland was at the sight of that luggage He didn't say one word He didn't know that I'd read the labels He just kept quiet. He's got a thousand times more self restraint than you have and I can tell you it you're up against him you've got your work cut out and no mistake * * *"

Harriet dropped back into her chair She thought I can't keep it up any longer It's about time I felt faint. I believe I do feel faint." And to Lord Furber in a weak voice

Brandy'

The cigarette fell to the carpet and began to burn a neat hole in its priceless rug Harriet sighed because climbing up all wet the father bank of the river, she felt safe once more

* * *

LORD FURBER instantly became one of nature's gentlemen From the sideboard, which seemed to contain all liquors and spirits (except rum) each decanter secure in a round socket he took some 1821 brandy and in ten seconds was holding almost with tenderness the glass to Harriet's languid lips She coughed She sighed again, shut her eyes and opened them

I am saved' she breathed

His lordship beheld her with equal respect humor and admiration But sex had terribly shocked the vanity of the autocrat in him and frightened the child in him Not even Maudie his wife had ever in the wildest moments of her red hair handled him half as roughly as Harriet Perkins Harriet had shown him to himself He was too much of a realist to deny the truth of the picture she had drawn He had always vaguely known but never realized clearly, that he in fact was as she had painted him He was too proud to sulk or to resent and too proud to be ashamed And in that moment he wanted more than anything to win her good opinion He felt as though he was sitting for an examination The ordeal occupied the whole of his brain his millions were so useless in the test that they seemed to have been reduced to the equivalent of twopence His sense of values was drastically altered In sum his emotions were unique and such as he had never expected at the hands of destiny

'Oh!' said Harriet I smell fire'

The fire of the cigarette was steadily boring its way through the Persian carpet

Oh, no!

I hope it isn't your lovely carpet

They both looked calmly at the burning carpet

It's nothing said Lord Furber These carpets are fire-proofed Always have em like that on board ye know

Then he stamped on the red glow and with dignity picked up the siphon and the overthrown table.

Have you forgiven my remarks" she asked coyly

I've forgotten," his lordship replied and he had

You must excuse me nearly going off like that But I'm not used to being spirited away in 2,000-ton yachts and having to keep my end up against millionaires and barons and things

'Tell Me Your Line'

"What are ye used to?' asked the Baron eagerly, standing near her with his hands in his pockets. Tell me what your line is I'm very interested, and I'd like to know something about ye

His interest was genuine and violent Indeed he was coming to the conclusion previously reached by Mr Sutherland—namely that there was none like Harriet Perkins in the whole world He had been dazzled and he rejoiced in the exceeding novelty

"I'm nothing And you can't tell something about nothing, can you?

'See if ye can't Just try And after ye've tried I'll tell ye something" His tone was very persuasive

'About yourself"

No About you It'll be my turn Ye've been telling me quite a lot about myself

Harriet sat up

'Have you ever been in a ladies club?' she asked

'No I don't like clubs and clubs don't like me Why?"

If you'd been in a woman's club—London I mean—you'd have seen in the dining room at night a row of small tables and a solitary woman sitting at each table and horribly pretending to be jolly and self sufficient, I'm one of those women Younger than most of them, but in quite a short time I shall be older than most of them I'm 30, and I shall go on being 30 for years yet—only my face won't go on being so! It's a pleasant age while it lasts and our business is to make it last as long as ever we can I've no relatives except distant ones—and the more distant they keep themselves the better I'm pleased I've got just enough income to wear presentable frocks, but not enough to cover myself with jewels I was never brought up to do anything, and I don't like bridge golf or tennis I like dancing, but if you don't pursue bridge, golf or tennis it isn't easy to find partners for dancing I get asked out—more often to lunch than to dinner—because I can be bright if I haven't got a headache In fact, I have a tongue in my head You may have noticed it. Sometimes I'm not asked twice to the same house because absurd persons think I have rather too much tongue in my head I can produce wonderful silences at lunch tables by some quite simple remark Strange isn't it'

"People wonder why I don't marry So do I wonder Because I can certainly arouse feeling in the male bosom.

Only the men I like don't seem to get as far as a definite proposition—I expect they're frightened of what I might say to them And those who do get as far as a definite proposition somehow always leave me cold And then that's that

When I'm sick of aboard I go back don and my club I go abroad—as they call it and wander from hotel to hotel, and make heaps of acquaintances mostly female, and I don't care for any of them and none of them cares for me There are thousands and thousands of us wanderers, particularly in Italy When I'm sick o abroad I go back to London and begin to hope for the best again Yes and then more abroad For ever and ever Amen I'm not physically repulsive and I've brains and brilliance—who'd dare it? but I'm a thoroughly unsatisfactory creature because I don't fit in And I'm growing worse every year * * * You asked me to tell you and I've told you—I don't know why And it's heaven's own truth that I never told any one before"

'You're an idler"

Lord Furber ceased to be one of nature's gentlemen

"There's only one thing the matter with you,' he said suddenly fierce You're an idler before God You ought to work You're taking from society everything ye need and giving nowt in return"

And what about you?'

'That's a different question Let's keep to the point

How can I work? I was never taught t work I don't know how to work

"Anybody can learn to work"

I'm not serious I hate head aches and backaches!'

Ashes be blowed Miss Bad heath never yet stopped anybody from working that wanted to work. Think of Herbert Spencer, and Mussolini here Bad health's always the last refuge of the female waster" The baron's eyes blazed and his hands removed from his pockets, were gesticulating and his feet restive

And there's another thing," Miss Perkins proceeded calmly. "Why should I take the bread out of other women's mouths" Lots of them need work and can't get it I don't need work'

Lord Furber clinched his teeth together and pulled a face. and seemed to dance about in fury.

AN exquisite, velvety skin is any girl's greatest charm, and for a screen star it is all important, leading motion picture directors say.

"Screen history has proved that the cleverest make-up can't imitate beautiful skin under the glare of the close-up I don't know a single girl without really lovely skin who has won enough of the public to become a star," says William Beaudine, director for Fox Films.

"A star must always guard the perfection of her skin—the glaring lights of the close-up reveal the slightest unevenness," Merna Kennedy explains.

The next time you see her in a close-up notice how fine and smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin or Clara Bow's, Bebe Daniels', May McAvoy's. When next you see your favorite screen star, whoever she is, remember that nine out of every ten lovely stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

Indeed, all the great film studios, following these stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

The exacting screen stars like the fact that this delicately fragrant white soap is made by the French method. "It gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only fine French soap could give," Renée Adorée says. You, too, will like its caressing lather that leaves your skin so satin smooth. Use it for the bath, too, and the shampoo, as the screen stars do.

SIDETRACK CRUISER BILL FIFTH TIME

Prohibition War Flares Anew in Senate; Threats of Night Sessions Heard

WASHINGTON, Jan 22—The prohibition war flared forth anew in the senate today as the administration's new cruiser bill was sidetracked for the fifth time to permit a resumption of debate on the dry proposal for a $24,000,000 increase in enforcement funds.

Threats of invoking night sessions to speed up the senate's legislative wheels were heard as administration leaders saw means to end the lengthy prohibition debate and hasten a vote on the naval bill. The naval measure has been before the senate technically since Jan. 3 but the debate upon it has lasted less than a half dozen hours. The rest of the time the bill has been sidetracked to permit action on other measures.

The prohibition row, revolving around the first deficiency appropriation bill, became protracted when Secretary Andrew W Mellon disapproved the proposed increase while dry leaders indorsed it. The administration forces were agreed to support a $1,250,000,000 substitute increase, proposed by Senator Jones of Washington, Republican dry leader, but were hopeful of defeating the larger increase.

Senator Harris, Democrat of Georgia, who sponsored a $25,000,000 increase originally but reduced it to $24,000,000 under a parliamentary maneuver, predicted senate approval of his proposal.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has ever failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (that is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv

INSPECTOR FINDS BUILDING UNSAFE

Movement for New Hospital Expected to Follow Official Edict

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 22— The movement for construction of some plan whereby a new and modern hospital can be erected here has been renewed with the receipt of the following letter written to the board of trustees of the King's Daughters hospital by the state department of industrial relations:

"This department granted permission to the King's Daughters to use the building now occupied as a first aid hospital, by making certain changes, for a period of two years with the understanding that a new and modern hospital would be erected within that time and the present building abandoned for hospital purposes.

"Our deputy, Mr. H. D. Titer, made an inspection of this building on Jan. 9, 1929 and found that it was still being used as a hospital and the second floor for convalescent patients. The agreement was that the second floor would not be used for patients, the building being of frame construction.

"In view of the above and the fact that the time limit expired April 1, 1927, for the use of this building as a hospital, please be advised that its use for such purposes shall be discontinued on or before Feb. 1, 1929.

"Yours very truly,
"O. A. Benedict.
"Chief of Division."

Town's Only Hospital

This, the only hospital in Marysville, was located in the condemned building four years ago, when it was moved from rooms above the postoffice. The present structure is the property of the Congregational church, formerly its parsonage, and the hospital trustees have paid the trustees of the church enough rent to pay for the taxes and insurance and the upkeep expenses.

There are at present 10 beds in the institution, which is operated by two registered nurses and assistant nurses, two day nurses, a night nurse and a housekeeper. Two years ago the local Kiwanis club managed a subscription drive and donated the proceeds, $1,000, to the institution. Also many voluntary gifts, of money, canned foods, clothing, etc., have been received by the King's Daughters. This organization has supplied funds when the gifts and revenues from tag days, etc., have not covered the expenses.

This, the first hospital this city, has ever had, will be badly missed. In the year ending Oct. 1, 1928, there were 217 patients cared for, of which 37 were charity cases.

Issues Statement

Mrs. Frances K. Thorpe, secretary of the board of trustees of the hospital, made the following statements concerning closing of the institution.

"It is with deep regret that the trustees of the King's Daughters hospital are compelled to give this announcement. Only by the cooperation of the members of each Circle of the City Union and the support of the citizens of the community has it been possible to carry on this work. Even with the responsibility which the trustees have had they are willing to go or with the work if it could be made possible. However, until another location can be secured, the work can not be carried on.

"The board of trustees wish to thank all interested in this work for their loyal support. All King's Daughters know that the motto of the organization is 'In His Name.' This is the spirit we had in the beginning of this work and it is the same spirit we have in closing. It is our earnest wish that we may be able to again take up this work in the near future, but at present we must abide by the decision of the Industrial Relations Department."

NON-STOP WORLD FLIGHT WOULD TAKE TIME, MONEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—A non-stop flight around the world is feasible, but a large amount of money and considerable preparation will be necessary before it can be carried out.

AKRON POLICE SEEK MAN ON CHARGE OF MURDER

AKRON, Jan. 22—Ben Johnson, 29, was shot to death early today, allegedly by Ellsworth R. Ward, who is sought by police.

The shooting occurred in Johnson's home and before dying in a hospital he named Ward as his assailant. Witnesses said the altercation which led to the shooting started when Ward made disparaging remarks about Johnson's wife.

Police believe the two were partners in a bootlegging enterprise and that the quarrel may have had something to do with this. Ward fled after the shooting, witnesses said.

LITTLE RESIGNS AS PREXY AT MICHIGAN

Carefully Worded Note of Regret Only Statement Given Out

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 22—A polite and carefully worded note of regret, described as embodying "all that the public needs to know," was the only statement forthcoming today from regents of the University of Michigan, who last night accepted the resignation of Dr. Clarence Cook Little as president of the institution.

Dr. Little's resignation was in the form of a brief letter, in which his first reason for resigning was considered significant. It said:

"Because my methods of handling situations dealing with interests of private donors, political interests, 'local' interests and alumnae interests are not consistent with policies the board of regents deems wise."

The regents met behind closed doors in a sound-proof room. They emerged from the meeting room with the collective statement, "we have nothing to say."

COUNCIL CONSIDERS NEW SEWAGE PLAN

Process of Disposal Explained at Meeting of Mt. Gilead Officials

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 22—At the city council session last night J. T. Travers, of the Travers-Lewis Process Corporation, of Columbus, presented an entirely different process of sewage disposal, which would not only be more efficient than the biological process now used, but could also be installed and operated at a much lower figure than the biological system. Not only is Mr. Travers backed by many years of sewage disposal experience, but his statements were also corroborated by O. M. Urbain, of the Urbain Laboratories, research chemists, Columbus. The latter is a writer of note along this line.

The new system, as explained by Mr. Travers, does not necessitate the filter beds, but takes its merit from "marl, a calcium carbonate." In commenting on his "new science of sewage disposal" Mr. Travers explained both the biological and the new method. He explained that by adding a certain amount of marl to each thousand gallons of water the sewage could be reduced to an odorless sludge and pure water. This result is secured through a chemical action in which the germs are killed by the ionization of the sewage, and the "fatty" part of the sewage, subject to putrification and fermentation, is eliminated in the process.

It is this putrification that makes the sewage disposal plants obnoxious and objectionable to those residing near the plant or along the streams into which the sewage is emptied.

Probable Cost

Although hesitant to give a rough estimate of the probable cost of such a change in the local sewage plant, which action must soon be taken, Mr. Travers expressed privately that the cost of such changes would be not more than $1,000 to make the local system effective, or that the essenial parts of the plant could be installed at a cost of near $600.

Floyd Brown, of Marion, who was formerly employed by the council for $35 a month for a year to give the local plant technical supervision and to give a report in the near future on the condition of the plan, was present. He was employed with the understanding that he would make recommendations to the council as to the best way to remedy the local plant. He stated that he did not care to discuss the relative merits of the two systems, but had found the biological sysem very satisfactory in Marion and other towns.

Council took the matter under consideration.

Senator J. R. Hopley, Charles F. Schnuber, Mayor Arthur Schuler, Service Director Clarence Kober and J. R. Lower, waterworks chemist, all of Bucyrus, attended this meeting and were interested listeners to Mr. Travers' explanation of the new system. They face a condition similar to that of the local council, and are seriously considering the new system. By courtesy of the local council they entered into the discussion and questioned Mr. Travers on their particular problems.

F. P. Boner requested permission to remove a tree near his home on Cherry st. This matter was referred to the street committee.

New Discovery Takes Misery Out of Colds

The first place where a cold is felt, nine times out of ten, is in the nasal passages or the throat. Stop the irritation and inflammation here and your cold will end, doctors say. And the wonderful results, thousands in this part of the country are securing from the simple discovery, known as "Arome," proves this is true.

"Arome" produces the quickest possible results because it goes directly to the affected parts. It is an aromatic liquid which vaporizes as you breathe it in through mouth and nose, clearing up the air passages so breathing becomes easy and regular; soothing away all-irritation and inflammation and quickly relieving the feverish, headachy condition it has been causing. Then it forms an oily coating over the mucous lining of the air passages which makes you practically immune to any further action of cold germs. Because of the remarkable way it penetrates and clears up the congestion of the head passages, "Arome" is just as effective for relieving headaches from any cause as it is in putting an end to the misery of colds.

"Arome" is highly concentrated so a few drops on your handkerchief, handy to breathe in at the first sign of discomfort, will last you allday. Or the handy, 50c vials are easily carried in purse or pocket. At all drug stores on a positive, money-back guarantee to give satisfaction.—Adv.

ASK THEFT PENALTY MADE MORE SEVERE

Hardin County Grange Passes Resolution Seeking Law Amendment

KENTON, Jan. 22—Resolution demanding an amendment to the present law regarding the stealing of poultry and farm animals that the penalty might be more severe, has been passed by the Hardin County Pomona grange.

The resolution asks that a statute be passed, or the present one amended, so that anyone breaking or entering any building, whether on a temporary foundation, movable or permanent, would be charged with burglary; and that the stealings of turkeys, chickens or farm animals in the open should be grand larceny, regardless of their value.

At the present time a statute of Ohio does not consider it burglary and larceny if a person breaks and enters, then steals anything of value from a portable or moving building, it was said.

Hardin county farmers this winter have been particularly hard hit by thefts of chickens from brooder houses and other animals from open pens.

EXTENSIVE STORM DAMAGE REPORTED

Morrow County Commissioners Take Steps to Effect Repairs

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 22—Morrow county commissioners in their regular session yesterday, received a flood of reports of bad road and culvert conditions from every corner of the county as a result of the miniature tornado and heavy rains that struck this section Friday. They are taking steps, with the aid of County Surveyor D. H. Richardson, to remedy the conditions as rapidly as possible.

About 10 culverts were reported washed out, in some cases the road being made impassable. Mail routes suffered the greater part of the storm's brunt, most of them being badly washed out. On the Mt. Gilead-Chesterville rd. a six-inch covering of mud was deposited by the storm.

The commissioners set Feb. 11 at 10 o'clock for hearing on the assessments on the Delaware-Cardington rd., section B.

The annual report of C. R. Swisher, superintendent of the Morrow county home, was approved by the commissioners. Swisher reported a decrease of population of the home from last year in his report, there being but 29 in the home at the end of 1928 while there were 33 at the end of the previous year. A total of $12,575.30 was needed to pay the expenses of the county home for 1928, which was partly met by total receipts of $2,122.00 from the institution. This leaves a net expense of $10,452.45 for the institution for the year. His report shows that most of the inmates are at the home because of disability of age, 26 of the 29 residing there on that account.

CHRISTIANS EXPECTED TO KEEP LEAD

EPWORTH FIVE CAN SETTLE LOOP RACE BY BEATING WALDO

Calvary Has Chance to Leave Cellar In Game With Brethren

BY BOB ELLIOTT
Marion Star Sports Writer

TONIGHTS games in the Senior Sunday school race loop which will open the week's festivities in the court sport, present three fairly well balanced contests for the pleasure of Mr Cage Fan The games will get under way at the Y M C A with Central Christian and Trinity Baptist meeting at 8 o'clock

This contest, which was to have decided the first half championship in the league will be just another game as a result of the Baptists defeat a the hands of the Epworth crew last week Practically the only chance for the Christians to topple from first place rests in the hands of the Baptists and Waldo are at present tied for second place one game behind the pace setting Christian team One of these teams will be eliminated in the last games of the first round next week when they meet each other About the only chance to get the C C's out of first place now would be for the Baptists to hand them a setback tonight and then the Waldo team defeat Epworth tonight and Trinity next week Thats a high assignment for any team

The Epworth team can clinch things for the Christian five by whipping the Waldo quint while the league leaders are taking care of the Baptists In this case the standings at the end of tonights games would be Christian four won and none lost Waldo Epworth and Trinity in a second place tie with two won and one lost

It would not surprise me a bit to see this happen, especially with the improved form that the Epworth team displayed when it came the Baptist are last week The Methodists will have to keep in good eye on Strine the Big Waldo center if they expect to win The game also depends a lot on Partridge the M D forward who has been erratic, wild in the last two games

In the remaining game of the loop Calvary and United Brethren will tangle, the game starting at 9 30 o'clock The contest presents the first opportunity that the Calvary five has had of getting out of the cellar After a sensational start the U B team has slipped fast and will have to display a better brand of ball than they have been doing if they expect to win tonights fray The Calvary outfit put on a whirlwind finish to throw a scare into the Christian team last week and if they can play the same ball tonight it will be too bad

Well if you want our choices well take Christian Epworth and United Brethren and the good Lord help us

In the Intermediate league Christians tangle with Trinity Baptist in the first game starting at 7 o'clock In the second game Epworth meets the Presbyterian five and in the last mix up Calvary and Greenwood will throw the pellet around for awhile The standings in this loop are a trifle mixed up but it appears that the Christian team is resting securely in first place with three won and none on the wrong side of the ledger

Paul Mackey Third of Family to Make Athletic History at Galion School

GALION, Jan 22 — Paul Mackey who for the past three years has seen service on the Galion high school varsity football teams has been named captain of the 1929 grid squad Mackey has played at both guard and tackle positions and for several seasons has been one of Galions most valuable players He is a junior and is also a basketball player of ability rating at the present time as high scorer of the N C O

He is the third of a triangle of brothers who have made athletic history in the local school and who are well known to league opponents The lineup of Galion football and basketball squads has included the name since the grid season of 1918

The first of the three brothers Frederick Mackey, graduated from the local school in 1925 after completing a career of four years to sports, playing tackle on the football team and captaining the basketball squad during the final year He later attended Ohio State university where he made his 'O' in varsity football, was baseball captain and is now line coach and intra mural athletic director at Ohio Wesleyan university

Clarence Mackey was a member of the championship team of 1921 that was not scored upon by an opposing squad of the N C O and during the same year was captain of the basketball outfit that represented Galion high He was graduated in 1925 after playing a prominent part in all sports during the four years and is at present a student at Emory and Henry college, Emory, Va., where he is a regular of the basketball squad and has played on the football team during two years in which the team has not suffered a defeat

The athletes are sons of Mr and Mrs C A Mackey, 614 South st

WISCONSIN UPSETS BIG TEN WITH WIN OVER BOILERMAKERS

Ohio State and Iowa Still Have Chance to Go Places

CHICAGO Jan 22—The Big Ten basketball race which was slowly settling into a walking jaunt for Purdue and Michigan was back in the old sausage mill today

Wisconsins uprising at Lafayette last night setting the erstwhile tough and slightly over confident Boilermakers on their collective ears was the sensation of the cage season to date It was not only a glorious triumph for the Badgers but it demonstrated to other conference teams who were inclined to chill at the mention of Purdue that Stretch Murphys gang could be stopped

The score was 31 to 26 margin enough to offset the argument of Hanks It was Purdues first defeat in six starts Played on the home floor before a packed gym of confident Boilermaker rooters it was a bitter dose to swallow The result put Wisconsin and Purdue in a tie for second place

Michigan alone remains undefeated and now leads the parade with four victories But the path of the Wolverines is full of pitfalls The psychological effect of Purdues downfall should inspire the teams still cherishing a hope for the title to put more heart into the championship drive If Purdue could be stopped why not Michigan

Ohio State and Iowa particularly should be encouraged by last nights turn in the battle tide Each has been beaten only twice Purdue and Wisconsin have each lost one game

In the only other conference game played last night Indiana defeated Minnesota on the former's home court 31 to 24 Although the Hoosiers are practically out of the running for the title their victory over Minnesota places them on even terms with Northwestern and Illinois both of whom still cherish the thought of a title

With only one more conference game scheduled for this week—Chicago at Ohio State on Saturday night—the race skids into the dull period between semesters Hard practice session will continue however and each team will be ready for the second lap as soon as the distracting examinations are out of the way

GETTING THE BREAKS

ONE or two unfortunate occurrences in the ranks of the North Central Ohio league may have a considerable bearing on the way teams wind up at the finish

We were wondering why Galion trounced Ashland last week and today the Ashland paper stated that Coach Stern kept three regulars out of the game So Galion is on top of the league with two games won and none lost

Bucyrus journeys to Mansfield next week and Harding's chances depends on whether or not the Crawford county team is defeated We are pessimistic enough to predict a Bucyrus victory in view of the discovery that Captain Bride Mansfield's court ace will be out of the lineup with a fractured leg bone He was injured in football but seem things look nice for Bucyrus eh what

SOME CONSOLATION

WITH things none too bright for Harding in the N C O here remains some consolation for the local school Three players Garrett Keller and Tuttle may be eligible for the next game They have more or less recognizable basketball ability and may help Comptons cause along quite a lot

Harding and Ashland have the toughest schedules in the league The local school plays its league games in a period of six weeks while Ashland plays the league teams in row

The next four weeks of play will tell whether Harding has any chance at the title Harding and Ashland will complete their league schedules at that time and the remaining week of play is not expected to result favorably to the local school

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

Ten years ago today The Star said that Schoenlaub star bowler of the Sammies in the Y M C L league was high man at the end of four weeks of rolling with an average of 188 pins for 12 games the Jackies with a percentage of 750 headed the Y M C A bowling league Barnhart of Carlington lost a return wrestling match with Matsuda, Columbus jiu jitsu artist at the Hart theater in a preliminary boxing match George Anson Marion and Joe Serra of Columbus fought six rounds to a draw Hal Chase first baseman for the Cincinnati Reds reported to be freed of charges of frequenting pool rooms and betting on ball games at his hearing before the league president on Jan 30

CHRISTNER THROWS NICE LINE OF TALK

Feels Confident That He Will Win Over Jack Sharkey Friday Night; Looks Good to Walsh in Practice Session

BY DAVIS J WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan 22 — Being a bright very alert youth full of enterprise and strength of character the writer went forth to the gymnasium yesterday to see K O Christner in the flesh and stayed to listen to him in a craze It was gathered when the harangue was ended that one of two things will be left after K O's fight with Sharkey on Friday night namely New York by an early train and Jack Sharkey on the floor As an audible fighter Christner is the most dangerous fighter we have had around here since the days when Sharkey himself was in good form a

The funny thing about this is that Christner talks you disposed to take him somewhat seriously both in what he does in the training ring and by what he says out of it He says he is going to lay Sharkey over as he tipped Kaute Hansen and there are plenty of sharpshooters in town who give him a good chance to do it As for K O and his manager Tom I know they dont think this is a chance at all they will learn the matter is settled

Talk Impressive

I saw this a manager and his fighter are out for a laugh when they start putting on an act like that But some how you are impressed I am sure of yours if by this time They are so earnest so convinced that what they say will happen simply must happen If the man was a mute in the ring you could listen to him and then turn your attention to something important But I wouldnt care to say that the man I saw in there yesterday is a mute He looked the part of a crude fighter but a good one

For one thing he seems to be a crowding fighter who at the same time keeps his jaw protected There are not too many of that kind For another thing he seems to be a right fair two handed puncher whereas we had been led to believe that he was right hand crazy A man like that would have his troubles tackling Sharkey But if he crowds the boy friend punching industriously as he did yesterday there is going to be a prize fight on Friday night

Christner throws a lot of punches from the third row balcony and I don't think these will do him any good Sharkey weaves away from that kind He won't weave and can't when you start dropping them into the sun parlor for the weave is designed mostly for head protection Christner looked as though he knew what some of it was about yesterday when he got in close He uses a crouch which gives him the appearance of awkwardness but in reality serves to wrap that left shoulder well up around his jowl The gent might look better but I have seen many who looked good only to defraud the eyesight

And really they ought to pass off somewhere on confidence particularly when it appears to be as sincere as Christner's He talked a lot yesterday and most of it was about himself—how the referee gave him a laugh by telling Hansen he was expected to win as soon as possible how he Christner took in Dempsey unafraid in a no hour when he was the rawest of novices But after all I want he dealing with the matter of crossing of all subjects" Show me the man who doesn't find himself absorbing ups and I'll show you a nice new ringside seat plan!

Clouser Miami forward Magly Ohio Wesleyan forward, and Franz Cincinnati guard are knotted in a tie for fourth place in individual scoring honors with 24 points each Miami, like Wesleyan, has played three games giving Clouser and Magly each a nine point game average

Wittenberg's diminutive sharpshooter Joe Keyser, is far behind the leaders this season Keyser has made only 21 points an average of seven per game He showed a fair form for the basket against Ohio last Saturday however when he made 11 points

This weeks games will bring the leading Wesleyan five and Denison together here Saturday night Ohio will play Cincinnati at Cincinnati Friday night and then make the short jaunt to Oxford Saturday night for a game with Miami

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—Near the end of the session yesterday grains rallied from the setback encountered Saturday and finished at prices moderately higher. Early uptums met with a continuation of the heavy realizing, and were of short duration, but all the dips uncovered excellent support from buying orders.

Wheat led the late advance. Further fears of crop damage with the forecast for a cold wave, bullish export news, and weekly statistics and firmer foreign markets promoted the buying. At the close prices were at the high points of the day, which were previous top levels of the present upturn. They showed gains of 1 1-8@1 3-8c with the March at $1.22 3-4; May, $1.26, and July, $1.27 7-8 split.

The corn market was called upon to absorb an enormous volume of profit taking and was slower in responding to the late advance. Argentine news was still extremely bullish, with the Buenos Aires market higher, but domestic conditions were slightly less encouraging. Closing prices showed net advances of 5-8@7-8c, with the March at 98 5-8c split; May, $1.01 5-8; and July, $1.03 1-2.

Oats were up with corn, closing ½@⅝c higher. Rye was not as strong as wheat, finishing 1¼c higher to ½c lower.

Early trading in wheat was rather light, but the disposition to regard the market in a friendlier manner was even more in evidence. Broomhall was out with a bullish statement on the heavy consumption of wheat as evidenced by the heavy shipments from exporting countries. He added that speculators are anticipating higher prices based on possibilities of reduced crops in surplus countries next season.

While advices from over the Winter belt express concern over bad weather, no real cases of damage have been reported so far. However, as Broomhall points out, the acreage is smaller this year and in Canada there is a deficiency of moisture.

The Orient was reported taking further large quantities of Manitobas via the Pacific, and the pool advanced its spreads ½@1c. While seaboard reported no sales, wires from exporters spoke of more activity in the offing. The Spanish crop was officially revised to 96,000,000 bu. which compares with 146,000,000 bu a year ago, and leads Broomhall to expect importations by that country of 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bu.

Liverpool was considerably higher than due and closed ⅝@½d higher. Buenos Aires was higher, and Winnipeg finished ⅝@⅞c up.

Argentine news was again conflicting, but the trade accepted the reports of further damage inasmuch as the Buenos Aires market was sharply higher. One estimate placed the exportable surplus at 10 per cent below the early figure of 200,000,000 bu.

Country offerings were fairly liberal and receipts over the week-end were rather heavy. Kansas City spoke on an easing basis under a more liberal movement and a similar situation was extant here. However, one note of cheer for the bulls in the domestic situation was a report of revival of export interest. Some sales are said to have been made, but amounts were not given.

Changes in the United States visible supply: Wheat, decreased 3,510,000 bu.; corn, increased 1,974,000 bu.; oats, decreased, 36,000 bu.; rye, decreased 28,000 bu., and barley, decreased 102,000 bu.

In the cash market wheat was steady; corn ½@1½c lower; oats unchanged to ½c off; rye easy; barley 1c higher. Cars inspected: Wheat, 33; corn, 383; oats, 78; rye, 11; barley, 24.

Varied Program Presented by Schubert Male Quartet

BY HALLIE HOUCK
Marion Star Staff Writer

"From the sublime to the ridiculous" runs to the program of the Schubert male quartet which appeared last night before a large audience in the Star auditorium in the series feature course of Harding High school. George Mayer, a Cleveland, who has been in the concert field since 1922, is director of the quartet.

Schubert's "Serenade from The Student Prince," one of the Germany composer's best-known works, made the night with solos by Harry Cole, first tenor and Ernie Dillon, second tenor, was one of the many which showed the beauty of the voices and the feeling put into the music.

Comedy Introduced

There was a pure comedy moment, though, when "Rhapsody" was interpreted. Some might think it scarcely appropriate to make light of a great opera, but the audience had little enjoyed the singing and foolishness to the utmost.

The program opened with "Hallelujah," followed by Haydn's "Harlequin" and a piano number, "Polonaise, Chopin, played by Miss Allene Ross well accompanist for the quartet. The range of voices in the voices was brought out in "The Volga Boatmen." The effect carried the voices of the men from far up the river Volga, past the audience and on down the river.

A romantic story of an Indian maiden who died shortly after her marriage, and was lamented by her husband, was told preceding the singing of "Pale Moon." Charles Dodson, baritone of the quartet, sang the Indian solo, "The Rise O' Sun," and as an encore, "All My Very Own."

Tells About Schubert

Mr. Mayer, director of the quartet, gave a short sketch of the outstanding facts in the life of Schubert, after which a well-rendered group of Schubert compositions was presented. Mr. Cole in his pleasing tenor voice sang "There Art Repose," followed by "Who Is Sylvia?" by the quartet. Mr. Dillon, violinist and owner of the group, provided great that a violin can add much to a program when he played "Moment Musicale." The Schubert group closed with "Serenade," sung by Mr. Cole with violin accompaniment by Mr. Dillon. To this point in the program the singers and the accompanist were in costume, doing the music which they sang.

Numbers in a lighter vein included "Billy Boy," "Molly Brannigan," and the spectacular "Annie Laurie." The part which detracted most from the program was the dialogue at this point. The burlesque of Rigoletto was heart-provoking, but the jokes and dialogue were old and not entertaining.

Piano Number

Miss Russell presented a piano selection, "Rondo of Spring," after which a pleasing solo group which brought out the low C notes of Mr. Miner, was presented. He selected for his number, "The Horn," and "The Bells of the Sea."

The rollicking joyous song, "On the Road to Mandalay," closed the program.

Being different from the other numbers on the course this year, and providing beautifully blended voices, the men's baritone of the quartet, sang quartet was a success.
